

Audi A3

Central locking opens and closes automatically.

If there are complaints with these vehicles that the central locking system opens or closes again automatically after the closing cylinder has been activated, one possible cause is the micro-switch on the closing cylinder. If tolerances are too great, the micro-switch slips out of the bracket on the closing cylinder and causes the fault described above. This fault only occurs when the closing cylinder has been activated with the key. If the remote control is used, no faulty function is found. To eliminate the fault the micro-switch can be fixed in the guide using a suitable adhesive. If this is not possible, the closing cylinder must be replaced by a newer version.
