

Audi A4 (8E, B6) With anti-theft alarm system

Release of the alarm system and functionless central locking after manual opening of the car.

If the car is opened manually by the key at the drivers door, and not by the remote control, the central locking is functionless and all other doors stay locked.

After opening the door, within 15 seconds the ignition must be switched on because after 15 seconds the alarm activates.

This is not a malfunction of the system but a kind of safety system. If the car is opened by the radio remote control the central locking works and the alarm system deactivates.

The anti-theft alarm system is described in the operating instructions of the car.

